

Jill K. Ambrose

Most recently as the CMO at CafePress, Jill Ambrose grew the business three times the industry rate to become one of the "Hot 100" online retailers. As VP of Marketing and eCommerce at GiftCertificates.com, Ambrose was pivotal in taking the company to profitability. Earlier, she was the principal of a strategic marketing and business development consultancy. Ambrose also served as the VP-Consumer Division at Corbis and the VP-Corporate Market and Product Development. As founder and CEO of AVID Enterprises, Ambrose negotiated licenses with professional sports teams to design, produce and distribute apparel to retailers nationally. AVID was first to market licensed sports apparel for women. Ambrose held several product management and creative positions at Disney before leading the branding efforts of Disney's Cruise Line, Disney's Sports Properties and Disney's Film and Television Properties. Ambrose started her career in store operations, buying and product development positions for Marshall Field's and Spiegel.